

Pre-Departure Checklist New Zealand

NCUK
THE UNIVERSITY CONSORTIUM

Before you leave home there are some essential things you will need to do. Use this checklist to make sure you are fully prepared for your arrival in New Zealand.

Your University

- Accept your offer.
- Complete any administration tasks from your university. They might ask you to:
 - Register with a student portal.
 - Enrol or chose classes for your first semester.
- Organise accommodation for your arrival. You can find accommodation advice and options for your university via the NCUK Pre-Departure page.

Flights and Visas

- Make sure you have a current passport.
- Organise your student visa. Further information including the evidence you will be expected to provide with your application can be found on the Immigration New Zealand website.
- Make sure you are aware of the current New Zealand Covid guidelines including pre-departure testing and vaccination.
- Make a documentation pack for everything you need to show at the airport and university. This could include:

- Your offer letter.
- Confirmation of Enrolment (CoE).
- Identification documents.
- Academic transcripts from previous study. Details of pre-arranged accommodation.
- Important medical records.

- Check the customs regulations for New Zealand: there are some things you may not be able to bring in.
- Confirm airport pickup options with your university if needed.

Arrival in New Zealand

- Organise money for arrival in New Zealand. Study in New Zealand recommend $400-450 for your first week's expenses. They also have some good information on managing your money and money culture.
- Organise any prescribed medication you may require including a letter from your doctor (in English) detailing any prescribed medicines.
- Write down the emergency contact number of your university in case you need help hen you arrive.
- Finally (and most importantly) note down the dates and events for your university's Orientation and Welcome week so you can start your university life with a bang!
