ABOUT THE NCUK PRIZE AWARDS

The NCUK Prize Awards is an annual scheme that presents NCUK students with opportunities to be rewarded for their success during the course of their studies with us. For over a decade, students have been recipients of NCUK Prize Awards and we continue to support students and reward them as they begin the next step of their journeys.

This year, NCUK Prize Award winners will be awarded a sum of over £20,000 with more students having opportunities to receive awards. Recipients this year include 'Academic Prize Award' winners, students who receive our traditional awards based on academic merit. These winners are the top academic students in the world who have studied NCUK qualifications in the 2022/23 academic year!

Additional recipients are 'NCUK Scholarship' winners, students who submitted applications to one of three award categories. These winners were chosen purely based on their submitted applications and rewards those who strive towards excellence and using their studies with NCUK and an NCUK University Partner for positive change in the future.

“Taking the International Foundation Year in Business Studies at NCUK has taught me many important aspects I would need in the future for my career goals. After my NCUK studies, I plan to receive a degree in fashion design as it has always been a passion of mine. My lifelong dream is to open a fashion house where inclusivity and sustainability are prioritised... I would like to create a business where women can show their full potential and build a more equal environment for every individual.”

“I aim to bridge the gap between research and clinical practice, ensuring that evidence-based medicine is effectively implemented for the benefit of patients globally. Furthermore, I plan to utilise the knowledge acquired from the International Foundation Year as I embark on my study at St. George’s University. In addition, I intend to utilise my medical knowledge and leadership abilities to influence government policies that enhance healthcare delivery systems and deal with social determinants of health.”

“I believe that the most powerful source of inspiration for me was the community and the environment surrounding the lessons: my classmates and teachers. Our constant discussions about education, goals, and future plans led me to set ambitious objectives of gaining admission to universities I could never have dreamed of. I am certain that this opportunity to study at one of the best universities in the UK and the world will provide me with the necessary boost to succeed in the future.”

“Throughout the NCUK International Foundation Year, I evolved into a proactive student, driving my peers to engage in discussions, solve problems collaboratively and instilling courage in them when they faced obstacles. My aspiration is to leverage my biomedical engineering degree to have a meaningful impact on society by creating a system that produces synthetic tissues and organs on an extensive scale. This aspiration would have been unthinkable without my journey through the NCUK International Foundation Year.”

“I am President of the Press Club and have published some original works in an anthology of poems and short stories, captained the Girls’ volleyball team, and other activities. Participating in these has assisted me in developing organisational, communication, interpersonal and time management skills. A notable addition is my role as President of the Student Representative Council. My decision to run for this position stemmed from my desire to give back to society, one step at a time, beginning with the school I was in. It is therefore my unwritten responsibility to make sure that my influence is a positive one.”

“I participated in an essay contest for the “October Patriotic Month” organised by my school and wrote an article about patriotism and remembering the country’s history. In the process of writing, I read a lot of history books and analysed and integrated valid information for my writing. After my continuous revision and optimization, my article finally won the gold medal. I often go to the geracomium to chat with the elderly...This cultivated my love and sense of responsibility to society. While working with the volunteer team, I was also involved in raising money for charity.”
